CHAMBER GETS DOWN TO REAL BUSINESS

Members Take Active Interest in New Organization—New Meeting Today.

It seemed in the main to be had choice of speakers. They not only spoke too frequently but they also created too long according to the notion of the crowd. Otherwise the "smoker" put on by the Chamber of Commerce last night was a success. As originally intended it was a "get-together" affair with embellishments. The idea of Pinneran, the major domo of the event was excellent and there was a crowd on hand. This crowd was made up of the best "stuff" of the city and there was some natural enthusiasm for the new venture.

Unhappily human nature is not constituted in a fashion which makes it pleasant to listen to an hour's dissertation on a "restricted district" when Mishawaka has no such affair; neither are the residents of the city constructed to face a volley of German poetry from an author which not only is unknown but who likewise doesn't seem to have any particular merit in the matter of composition as far as could be determined last night.

Notwithstanding this the people of Mishawaka desire above all else a commercial organization which will give them decent drinking water from the city mains. They went on record at the rather disjointed meeting of Monday night favoring an organization such as the new Chamber of Commerce is and every live member there, whether he be member of the Chamber of Progress or the Business Men's association, agreed to suspend "the rules" and get immediate action upon this matter of a live commercial body.

The Business Men's association is dead according to the admission of J. DeLorenz, president of the pronouncedly defunct organization, and if the Chamber of Progress, notwithstanding its attractive name, is not now deceased it should be in the light of new developments.

The imported eloquence served to show the need of better streets, the importance of a special tax on the improved property within the interior of the city and the need of pure drinking water for those who were unable to purchase it by the bottle and also for adequate protection of fire.

That the people of the city will have a unity of commercial organizations was never so clearly emphasized as at the meeting of last night. There was some little disappointment that the younger commercial organizations of the city had not been further consulted and that their charters had not been cancelled but there was not a man in the assembly who voted against the establishment of the new organization.

CHAMBER OF PROGRESS PROTEST IS TOO LATE

Organization Supposed Dead Suddenly Awakens—Will Meet Thursday.

The committee appointed at Monday night's meeting of the business men to get together and decide on the cancellation of the charters of the two existing business organizations, has decided to wait further developments until after Thursday night, when the Chamber of Progress will hold a meeting to discuss the situation. It had been generally thought that the latter organization was defunct, inasmuch as it has not held a meeting for many months, and all interest in its doing was seemingly dead. In fact for the past two years it has been on the road to decay, and 18 months ago when interest in its doings began to wane, it was hard to get even a quorum to attend its meetings.

Some surprise was expressed among the leading business men of the city Tuesday that the members of the Chamber should have waited until the eve of the canvass for members for the new organization before letting their views in regard to the matter be known. Fred M. Barrows, president of the Chamber of Progress, has attended all the meetings of those interested in the new association and was seemingly in favor of the change, having raised no objection to the method of organization as laid down at the recent meeting in the Finch & Sprague undertaking parlors.

As matters now stand, the result of Monday night's meeting has made the real progressive men of the city more determined than ever to boost the new proposition along and to lend it all the aid in their power. Members of the Chamber of Progress, those who have considerable interest in the welfare of the city and who pay their share of taxes, have signified their intention of lending their aid to the Chamber of Commerce, notwithstanding the evident intention of a number of the younger element to administer a knock to the undertakings.

One pleasing feature in connection with the meeting Monday night was the presence of a large number of representative men from the various industries of the city who have already signified their intention of becoming identified with the Chamber of Commerce.

CHARGES ARE FILED AGAINST DE GROOTE

Though charges have been filed against Atty. Gen. E. H. DeGroote by Chief Buysse, nothing as to the nature of them could be learned from members of the board of safety.

Mr. Nettleton, president of the board, stated over the phone last night that charges had been made in due order to the secretary of the board, Nils Lowman, and that they would be made public at the proper moment. Mr. Lowman, however, denied that the charges had been filed and stated that he knew nothing of the nature of them.

Mr. Lowman, when pressed for an answer, stated that he had not been near his office during the day and that there was no possibility that these charges were upon his desk at the city hall.

The date at which the charges were filed and with whom they were entered will be made known at the general session of the board of safety at the next meeting.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE.

Mrs. Charles Behse, 201 Merrifield av., was pleasantly surprised by the members of the Tabitha Sewing circle and a few friends Monday afternoon, when they came in to assist her in celebrating her birthday anniversary. The afternoon was spent in games and contests. The guests presented Mrs. Behse with a handsome rocker. Luncheon was served. Covers were laid for 15.

STANDING OF WOMAN NIL IN CHRIST'S DAY

Conversation of Jesus and Woman of Samara Teaches Much.

Woman's standing in the scale of social life was almost nil in the days of Jesus Christ, according to Dr. A. J. Burnett of the First Presbyterian church Monday evening. His subject was "A Conversation With Christ."

When Jesus spoke to the woman of Samaria at Jacob's well it was a scandal and the disciples were surprised with His disregard of the conventional. Yet Christ displayed His wealth of loving kindness when He stooped and spoke to her and raised her to a new level. Christ recognized in her a new life and one for His kingdom. And when this woman's accusers brought her before Him, proud of having found her, she approached Him with downcast eyes, ashamed of her guilt. And Christ said, "Let him who is without sin cast the first stone." And it was His conversation with this woman that showed her her sinful life and brought her into the fold of God.

This conversation at Jacob's well, said the speaker, shows that it may be only one kindly word or simple act, a warm handshake or some little ministry, which will save a soul. Yet, he asserted, it requires tact, and it also requires something more than tact, it requires the exercise of good judgment. People do not talk and discuss religion with a freedom characteristic of other subjects yet it should be just as natural to talk this subject as it is to talk politics or anything else. In our daily life we must talk religion, we must think it and we must work for it, for we must have religion.

I believe that there are people to-night who are so deep in sin that they are degraded as to the terrible meaning of sin. And so as it was the great function of Christ, so it is ours, to show man what he is, and how he was in His eyes.

He closed by stating that he did not believe that much was accomplished with man by telling him that he is a sinner. No, said the speaker, show him God and give him thought of God.

Methodist Memorial Church. A comfortably filled auditorium greeted Dr. Loren M. Edwards, Monday evening at the Methodist Memorial church to hear his second sermon of the revival of which the subject was, "Pillars of Salt." He showed the lesson of Lot and his wife, when she turned from salvation and leadership to the material things of Sodom. He showed that the man of today must not turn like Lot's wife to the material things, but must keep before him those of spiritual nature.

First Christian Church. "How the Soul Can be Made to See God and Come Into His Kingdom" was the subject of Rev. E. K. Van Winkle of the First Christian church Monday night. Two accessions were reported at this church.

AT THE TEMPLE.

The screaming live act comedy taken on board a Pullman train entitled "Excuse Me" will be shown at the Temple today. Wednesday a very strong Shubert film attraction entitled "Over Night." Thursday no doubt the Temple will be taxed to its capacity when "The Girl and the Game" will be shown with darling Helen Holmes in the leading role. It has been reported that Helen Holmes was born and spent a great deal of her former life in the vicinity of Mishawaka. Reports from exhibitors from coast to coast pronounce this one of the greatest successes.

MRS. BEIGER TO ENTERTAIN. Mrs. M. V. Beiger will entertain the members of the general meeting of the Mishawaka Woman's club Saturday afternoon at her home, Lincoln way E. An excellent program is being completed, during which Mrs. Beiger will give a talk on "A Day in Japan" and will illustrate with a rare collection of Japanese works of art.

MISHAWAKA PERSONALS.

Clarence Crosby and family, who have been living on Elkhart farm, northwest of the city, left for Fort Wayne Monday evening, where they will make their future home. John Jordan, who fell from a hay-loft recently and sustained injuries, has almost recovered.

ECHOES FROM FRONT IN MUNICIPAL COURT

Limbers For Action as Partner Assails Honor of His Country.

"Ven I want a beer and I got a jitney, I can buy it," declared Eugene Schock in city police court Tuesday morning.

"Quite right," replied Judge Feig, "but that privilege is restricted to your capacity and you cannot get drunk."

"Are you guilty or not guilty of intoxication," questioned Deputy Pros. Sam Schwartz. "I was not drunk," was the answer. "I was not mad, ven dat feller said a German let no root. I try to tell him Belgium is better now under the rule of a great power."

Here it was necessary to take a recess to eject Joe Van Der Busch from court, for Van Der Busch being a native of the little country across the sea, was about to get into action. "See, us like dat, dat other feller get mad and dey put me out in the street and den I get arrested. Ach, is it I haf no right in dis country, no liberties?"

At this point, Deputy Pros. Schwartz interposed that if Schock wanted liberties, he could plead not guilty, which Schock did and the case was set for trial Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock.

Van Der Busch, next up, pleaded guilty to intoxication and was given a fine of $1 and costs, which was suspended.

COST OF PROGRESS IN MACHINERY ALONE

Principal D. W. Horton Speaks on Inventions Before Woman's Club.

"In these days philosophers are everywhere asking the question, 'Is not most of the progress we have made, progress in machinery alone?' Have we really progressed in mental, social and spiritual life? Are not the atrocities and beastliness of the present great war, and the tremendous absorption of men in material and industrial development indications of the dominance of the more material alone?" asked Principal D. W. Horton in the course of an address on "Inventions" delivered before the literary department of the Woman's club, Monday afternoon.

Inventions have lightened woman's work, and given her the opportunity of leisure time for developing the artistic, intellectual and social life of the home, continued the speaker. Woman has surplus time for interest in social, religious and civic work. The problem is not solved, however, because many women do not choose to so employ their leisure time. Many women spend their surplus in dressing, idle chatting, high society, and not seldom in dissipation, and hence develop a sort of parasitism. The progress of society will depend to a very great extent on how woman shall determine to use her social surplus of time, energy and money. In conclusion the speaker pointed out how machinery has aided man by shifting the heavy burdens from flesh and bone, so that heavy and grinding work is done by inanimate forces. Inventions have meant shorter hours, greater productivity, and less muscle bondage. This very fact makes the problem of recreation the chief social problem for the solution of a municipality.
